THIRTY-EIGHTH ANNIVESARY

Local Y. M. C. A. Holds Special Services on Sunday

A MEN'S MASS MEETING

And Addresses by Visiting Secretaries Mark Complete Observance of Anniversary Day.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Sunday was observed as anniversary day by the local Young Men's Christian Association The Bellefonte branch was instituted thirty-eight years ago and while it has had a hard struggle for existence at times and almost at the point of suspension it is today enjoying greater prosperity and a larger membership than at any time during its history.

The anniversary services were general throughout the town, special services being held in the different churches and a men's mass meeting in the court house in the afternoon. Three visiting secretaries were here to assist in the services.

In the morning J. K. Doan of Coopertown, N. Y. addressed a large audience in the Presbyterian church while George Goodlander, of Tyrone, conducted like services in the United Brethern church and H. S. Sheppard of Renovo made an address in the Evangelical church. In the evening Mr. Doan addressed the congregation at the Methodist church. Mr. Goodlander at the Reformed church and Mr. Sheppard at the Lutheran church. Rev. John Hewitt rector of the St. John's Episcopal church preached an appropriate sermon in the evening. In this manner an opportunity was given to all to hear one or more of the addresses during the day.

While the turnout to the men's meeting held in the Court house in the afternoon was not as large as desired there was a good sized audience. The meeting was opened with a half hour's song service and the several selections by the Presbyterian quartette were highly appreciated by all. A report of the year's work was read by Prof. James Hughes, giving an account of the work in all departments as well as a financial statement, covering the receipts and disbursements for the past year and an estimate of the needs of the coming year. The speaker of the afternoon was John K. Doan of Coopertown, N. Y. who held the undivided attention of his audience for an hour and whose address was very timely, as he urged upon his hearers the necessity of the selection of men of principle in preference to men of party. There were many good things in his address all the way through but space will not permit a fuller account. It is to be regretted that we cannot give a synopsis of all the addresses of the day; but the appended annual report will be of interest to all.

ANNUAL STATEMENT.

The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Bellefonte, take pleasure in presenting the 38th annual statement of this organization.

The fifteen business and professional men who compose this board, realize that to them has been delegated a public trust of great importance. High moral and christian manhood is, without a doubt, the best asset of a community, and to have any part in its development and preservation, is a high privilege indeed, although this privilege may impose responsibility.

We have not thought it wise to burden you today with a detailed account of all that has been undertaken, by our Association during the past year, although we feel that the money and time invested in the Young Men's Christian Association during the past twelve months, has paid excellent dividends. Indeed, we have repeatedly been told that few organizations, similar to our own, are conducting such a varied and successful work, with the same amount expended as the Bellefonte Association.

During the past year 32,000 visits have been made to our building for all purposes, one of our best attractions being our Physical department, which has had the supervision of a trained Physical Director. Regular classe in physical culture, have had an aggregate attendance of 3,760 young men. Bowling alleys, tennis courts and baths, together with the clubs organized in this Department, have made it a real value to all men seeking sound and healthy bodies

The Association is also represented by two strong basket ball teams of Seniors and Juniors. The senior team has played 13 games with outside teams, being the victor on nine occasions. The junior team has also given a good account of itself, as its recent victories over two State College town teams show. We feel that we should also mention the work of the Academy team composed of Y. M. C. A members, which has had a most successful season in our gymnasium.

Under the head of Educational Work should be mentioned the classes in Mechanical Drawing and Electricity, with A. C. Harper and Mr. Fred Bussler, respectively as instructors. Five young men gave twenty weeks to the first named study this season, and thirteen young men are now completing the electrical course. A very promising class in Telegraphy is also in prospect for the season.

The reading room has an excellent stock of periodicals and is always occupied with men. We have also lately had the pleasure of giving quarters to "Our Book Club" library, which may be hereafter be found in class room No. 2, on the second floor of our building.

It is needless to state that the social atmosphere about our game rooms is always good and a social function like our New Year's reception serves to bring new faces into our building.

While we believe that every department of our work, that has for its object the perfecting of manhood, is religious work, still we are pleased to report two more definite forms of work under this term, namely:—Bible teaching and Gospel Meeting.

Early in last November our first men's mass meeting was held in the Court House. Sunday we held our fifth meeting of this character in the same place. These meetings have had an average attendance of 175 men, and have successfully brought the gospel to all classes.

Our Young Men's Bible Study Club, which was so successful last year with Dr. J. Allison Platts, as teacher, has continued its work this year. The young men meet Tuesday evenings at 6 30 o'clock, for a supper, that they themselves provide; take up the Bible lesson at 7 00 o'clock and at 8 00 have an evening open for other engagements. Thirty-eight young men are members of this Club, and the average attendance is thirty men.

We have mentioned but a few of the more important plans in operation at our building, merely to suggest the possibilities of our work, rather than to give an exhaustive report of all that has been accomplished. There is really no limit to the possibilities of the work of an organization like ours, that appeals to the whole man. More could be undertaken in Bellefonte, could we but receive the necessary financial support. The work actually undertaken in 1907, cost $3100 $721.50 of this amount came from membership and bath department locker fees. $53.50 was received in rent from our stable. The balance $2325.00 was provided for in subscriptions. Of this $275 remains unpaid, although the pledges are doubtless good and collectible and when paid will fully cover all of our 1907 accounts.

Our buildings carry a mortgage of $6000, and we have an additional note of $328, which is the balance due the work of remodelling our office building this past year. The annual rental of our office building is sufficient to carry our mortgage and note, leaving only for your consideration our current expense budget, which is as follows, and covers the year ending December 1st, 1908.

Heat and light	$500.00
Baths, coal and water	$100.00
Printing	$50.00
Subscription to State and International work	$25.00
Periodicals	$65.00
Repairs	$100.00
Educational work	$50.00
Special religious work	$50.00
Incidentals	$100.00
Salaries (including janitor work)	$1900.00
Insurance	$60.00
Total	$3000.00

$800.00 of the above amount will be met by membership fees, leaving $2200 to be secured in subscriptions. At the present moment our treasury is entirely depleted, and we have not a dollar on hand, with which to meet bills, now coming due for this present year. We certainly need the help of every friend of young men, and would ask not only for a renewal of regular pledges, but at least $500 in cash by April 15th, to save our work from serious embarrassement.

Believing that the value of this report for young men is appreciated by the people of Bellefonte, and that you will willingly meet the necessary expenses of the same, we remain

Respectfully,
The Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors.

STATE CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

First Annual Gathering at Hecla Park Friday Evening.

40 MEMBERS PRESENT

Alumnin and Former Students Enjoy Feast of Planked Shad and other Delicacies at Popular Club House

INTERESTED IN NEXT COMMENCEMENT

The Alumni and old students of the Penna State College gathered together to the number of forty and had a fine planked shad banquet at the Nittany Country Club Friday evening. It was the first one held of the newly organized Bellefonte club and was voted by all a grand success and will become an annual feature in the future. Representatives of classes from the founding of the College as a Farmers High School to date were present, many accompanied by their ladies. A special train left at 4.30 after waiting for some time on Dr. Welsh who was expected on the Lemont train but it being derailed at Gregg's he was prevented from being present. The party sat down at 6.45 and the courses were well served by mine host Smith the new steward at the Country Club while music was furnished by Deitrick's orchestra which was taken down for the occasion.

Col. Chambers presided as toastmaster and when the tables were cleared called on Judge Ellis Orvis who made a short address, when next General Beaver related the earnestness and devotedness of the founders of the College, plead for the better college spirit of the old students from around this vicinity for their support and pride of the local institution of which they all should be so proud. In referring to the coming commencement he said it promises to be the largest and best in its history in the inauguration of the new president Dr. Sparks and the great influx promised of the prominent old students that it is going to be a grand reunion and he hoped Bellefonte would do its share to extend a royal welcome to all. His address was well applauded throughout especial when he spoke of the bright future promised in the plans now being formulated for the extension on all lines to make it one of the prominent universities of the country. So earnestly did he talk that when he finished it was time to go to the train and the great pleasure that was to be in store to listen to the brilliant addresses prepared by "Barney" Potter, "Curt" Lingle, "Pete' Meek, "Newsy" Speer, "Jim" Potter, "Hen" Quigley, "Sunny Jim" Gray, "Hop" Fortney, "Arch" and "Sylvester," was lost forever to the world and their great efforts came to naught and possibly many lives saved as there were no physicians present. The party adjourned with regret and a promise for a larger attendance next time and the meeting will undoubtedly be of good in helping to further the interests of the institution that all are learning to be proud of.

Are You Prepared to Laugh.

The Academy boys are making the effort of their lives to present on the evenings of May 1st and 2nd a minstrel performance that will please the most critical and offend none. The greatest care is being taken to prevent a single incident that could cause displeasure. To insure perfect order in the gallery and protection to all special officers will be employed.

The management will endeavor to make the program just long enough to delight and satisfy and will guard against the tendency of making it too long so characteristic of home talent entertainments. There had been a plan to introduce a cake walk of a very graceful and refined character, but the program being plenty long enough without it, even this interesting feature of minstrelsy can and will be dispensed with. The chart will be opened at Parrish's Drug store about April 21st. So be prepared to secure seats early unless you are willing to stand.

Watch for the grand street parade at 2 p. m. each day of the minstrels Don't forget the date and prepare to laugh as you have never laughed before.

LEWISBURG TRAIN HITS BUGGY.

Wm. Walker, Son and Daughter Hav Narrow Escape When Vehicle was Demolished.

The Lewisburg train which arrives in Bellefonte at 4 o'clock struck the buggy of William Walker at Greggs on Friday evening and injured the occupants, Mr. Walker, his daughter and son. It appears that they were coming home from a sale and the boy was driving. They heard the train coming and one of them warned him about driving across the track when the train was so near. He however drove on and and the train which was about 20 minutelate and running fast, hit the buggy, throwing the occupants a distance of about 30 feet. The buggy was torn loose from the horse and badly broken up.

The train was immediately stopped and backed to the place of the accident to learn the extent of the injuries and render assistance if necessary. Dr. Robison of State College was on the train and made a hasty examination of their injuries He found that Mr. Walker was injured internally but could not tell at that time to what extent, but evidently serious. The daughter was bleeding at the mouth but no serious injuries were discovered. while the boy had several of his teeth knocked out.

All three of the injured persons were able to walk around. They were conveyed to their home in the rigs of other persons who had been attending the sale.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Cox.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Cox. wife of George Cox, died at her home on Halfmoon Hill at ten minutes past 10 o'clock Monday morning. The deceased has been ailing for the past two years, being a sufferer with cancer and dropsy.

Mrs. Cox was a daughter of Peter Rote and was born in Buffalo Run Valley 64 years ago. On January 5th 37 years ago she was married to George Cox at Colerville by Rev. Smith, and she has resided in Bellefonte practically all her life.

When yet a mere girl she joined the United Brethren church and has always lived a consistant life. She was a devoted wife and her kind disposition won for her a large circle of friends.

Deceased is survived by her husband George Cox, one brother, James Rote of Pittsburg, and one sister, Harriet Rote of Bellefonte.

Athletic Field Is Assured.

A committee interested in the new athletic field has succeeded in raising by subscription a neat little sum of money for the building of a fence aronnd the old glass work's meadow. It is the desire of those interested to raise a sum that will enable them to build bleachers and a grandstand this spring Any who have not been asked for a subscription but who are interested in the enteprise and desire to contribute to it may notify Edward Hoy, Hard P. Harris, George Meek or James R. Hughes. If you feel inclined to contribute please notify the committee at once so that the desired plans may be carried out without delay.

At the proper time a detailed statement of all expenses incident to the establishing of this enterprise together with a list of the subscribers and the amount subscribed will be published in the town papers that the public may know how their money, so willingly and so generously contributed, has been expended.

Brakeman Fell From Pilot.

At the time of going to press Saturday the reports from the wreck at Lock Haven were meagre. It has since been learned that brakeman Roy Leff was riding on the pilot of the engine and was about to jump and run ahead to open the switch to let the heavily loaded freight train pass from the B. E. V. tracks into the P. & E. yard, In so doing he slipped and fell beneath the wheels and was literally ground to pieces being pinioned beneath the pilot for a distance of 121 feet. The engine ran across the platform to within eight feet of the station. The engineer and fireman thinking the engine would topple over jumped and in so doing the engine tripped and falling broke his arm and sprained his wrist. There were quite a number of people at the station at the time and witnessed the sad accident.

Looking After the Youth.

It is encouraging to know some good persons in the church, have both the ability and purpose to change their methods of church work in order to more successfully meet the changed conditions of society.

Miss Nettie Huntington, of Cleveland, Ohio, a daughter of a late standard oil magnet, has forsaken society and is devoting her time to the teaching of classes of girls in a social settlement of Cleveland. Miss Huntington is worth about $2,000,000. She is setting an example for right living for the rich in all places.

Mr. Joseph Milbank of New York City has built a "Peoples Palace" as a substitute for the saloon. This palace is furnished with all innocent, modern attractions and conveniences, and is surrounded by large play grounds, affording every healthful amusement for the young, rich and poor.

A very moderate charge is made for the right of sharing in the privileges of this palace and its play grounds. The regulations of this modern plant for complete education are under the directions of moral and christian business men.

The location of this palace and its attractive grounds is in Jersey City, as an adjunct to the church under the care of Rev. John L. Scudder, D. D.

Dr. Rainsford's church, St. George's and other Episcopal churches in New York do similar work.

In Bloomfield, New Jersey, a Presbyterian church has been erected on much the same lines as the Jersey City People's Palace.

All the results thus far are proving benefical to the churches and surrounding communities.

"Just Out of College."

George Ade's comedy, "Just out of College," will be presented at State College on Monday April 13th.

The story is of a young, impecunious college graduate who aspires to the hand of the daughter of a wealthy pickle manufacturer, The latter at first demurs, but afterward promises to give his consent, providing the young man demonstrates his worth by making good use of $20,000 which he loans him. The money is used in promoting a rival pickle factory, which is ultimately bought up by the combination, headed by the old man, at about ten times its actual value. This is where the young man, just out of college, shows his ability as a financier. He returns the $20 000 that he borrowed and marries the girl; but not until after he has had a most strenuous time of it. Between business and love, he has been the most active man in the community. In addition to this love romance there are three similar affairs going on at the same time.

Every part in the play is said to be a distinct characterization, and in Mr. Ade's happiest vein.

Tickets will be at Krumrine's drug store on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 7 and 8 to allow Bellefonters to select seats.

To Create Juvenile Court.

Judge Ellis L. Orvis, has filed a decree creating a "Juvenile Court" under Act of Assembly of May 1903. No definite time is fixed for its sessions, and will be held whenever there is occasion for a hearing, and it does not conflict with the other established sessions in this court as it is to have hearings where children under 16 years of age do not have proper parental care and attention or are incorrigable.

The prothonatary was directed to secure a special docket for this purpose, where a record will be kept of all the proceedings. Two "Probation Officers" were appointed to aid the court and give some attention to the care of children who are in need of better surroundings and protection. The officers serve without compensation. For this purpose Rev. Ambrose Schmidt and Rev. C. P. Herrington of Bellefonte were appointed.

Death of Howard Woodring.

Mr. Howard Woodring of Church Hill, Md., died Thursday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Woodring in that place. Mr. Woodring will be remembered as being in charge of the Western Union Telegraph office in in Bellefonte several months ago which position he was forced to resign owing to failing health.

THE GROUND CAVED IN

Pierce Butler, a Muncy Farmer Escaped Drowning

WAS PLOWING IN FIELD

Water from Creek Undermined Field; and Man, Horses and Plow Sank Into Hole

ONE OF HIS HOREES WAS DROWNED

Muncy, April 3.—While Pierce Butler, a farmer living along Muncy creek, about a mile from this place, was plowing in a field near the creek Thursday morning the ground suddenly caved in and man, horse and plow were plunged into several feet of water, the creek having undermined that section of the field. Mr. Butler barely escaped with his life through the timely assistance of a grandson and others who went to his rescue. One horse was drowned, but the other was rescued alive.

Mr. Butler, who is about seventy years of age, started plowing in the field, which is located along the bank of the creek, early in the morning. There was no indication of the land on which he was working having undermined and no warning was given until the ground suddenly opened as it were, and he found himself struggling with the horses in the water. The accident was witnessed by a grandson whose cries brought others to the scene. Mr. Butler was pinned fast under the plow, with the lines wrapped about his neck and it was only by heroic efforts on the part of the rescuers, who were themselves in danger, that he was extricated. He was nearly exhausted when taken out and for a time his life was despaired of but he soo recovered.

Mr. Bryan's Progress.

As Henry Clay would rather have been right than president it is observed from the following interesting figures that William Jennnig Bryan, from a renumerative standpo nt, would just as leave be Mr. Bryan as president. His rise from a thousand dollars a year lawyer to a political captain of industry has been remarkable, and while lacking in honor as president his income is more annual y.

From that bitter note of awakening worldliness to the development of Mr. Bryan in a well-cut frock, unbagged trousers four-in-hand cravat and an income estimated at something like $60,000 or $70,000 a year, with a political prestige that rises superior to consequences and compels even his enemies to fawn like spaniels, his growth has been largely a conversion of politic into a clean, practical but going private business.

Nor is there the slightest unfriendly aim in this statement; merely an impartial consideration of interesting and significant facts concerning one of the most singular and commanding personalities in American history.

Mr. Bryan takes 50 per cent. of the ticket money when he lectures. It does not matter whether his lecture is for the benefit of a church, a hospital, an asylum or an entertainment bureau, his share is not less than one-half of the receipts.

He does not charge anything for his strictly political speeches, nor for his attendance at Democratic banquets. In these matter he gives his service without pay. But it will be seen that the activity and enthusiasm of his political followers, and the consequent attention paid to his plans, movements and views in the local newspapers, save the cost of advertising and help to draw paying crowds to his lectures

Mr. Bryan has received $500 apiece for short newspaper articles, money paid in advance. It is said that he got 10 cents a word for his recent written debates with Senator Beveridge in a magazine.

Yet before he was nominated for president Mr. Bryan's average income as a lawyer was about a thousand dollars a year, and his salary as political editor of the Omaha World-Herald at the time of his nomination was only $1,800 a year.—James Creelman, in Pearson's Magazine.

Our Boys.

Give our Bellefonte boys more attractive play-grounds and you will need less jail room, less police power and fewer saloons Next to a good home, a good church and a good school, a good play-ground is essential to the moral as well as the physical uplift of our youth.

Statistics show that in every city where attractive play-grounds have increased there youthful misdemeanors have deceased. This is a paying investment for every good citizen. It is an aid to mission work among both the foreign born and home born children at the same time,

PHILIPSBURG HAS BRIGHT PROMISES

Wednesday Philipsburg Journal—The gas escaping from the new artesian well recently put down by the Monarch Coal Co. at their big shaft, a couple of miles southeast of town, shows signs of gaining in strength. H. M. Hughes, superintendent of the corporation, informed us Tuesday night that if the water could be cased off, there would even at the present time be a sufficient supply of gas to operate the boilers at their plant. Although the gas is naturally obstructed by the several valves in the pumps, preventing continuous flow, the three inch pipe fills sufficiently at intervals to produce quite a flame.

The unexpected discovery of this flow of gas, at a depth of only 450 feet, has naturally created considerable excitement, and the company has been approached by numerous people desirous of securing options. These have been refused, however, as the company contemplates making its own tests.

Mr. Hughes says he has no doubt, whatever, but that a proper test will reveal the presence of gas in paying quantities, a condition believed by very many reliable experts.

The discovery of gas on the Monarch Coal Co.'s property has naturally proven a stimulus to the new corporation recently organized in this city known as the Allegheny Oil & Gas Co., whose stock is selling rapidly, and having had marked success in securing many options, hopes soon to be in shape to begin developments at various points throughout this section.

State Road for Centre County

Contracts have been awarded for the construction of two more pieces of state road in Centre county. The one will be in Milesburg borough, beginning at the bridge over Bald Eagle creek and connecting with the state road recently built from Bellefonte to Milesburg. The distance is 2699 feet and the contract was awarded to R. B. Taylor, for $4,346.55. There was only one competitor, the Juniata Paving Co., of Harrisburg.

The other piece of road is in Rush township and extends from the Philipsburg borough line east a distance of 5740 feet. There were eight bidders for the piece of road, four of them submitting two bids, one bid being for a road built of native stone and the other for a top dressing of either Centre county or Bellefonte limestone. The contract was awarded to King and Phillips, of Philipsburg, their bid of $12,059.40 being the lowest.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

A Lesson in Grammar.

In a certain mountainous region the teachers are appointed with little question concerning their grammatical orthodoxy. Occasionally, however, a wave of school reform sweeps through the valleys, and undesired examinations are thrust upon embarrassed pedagogues.

It was during one of these periods of intellectual discomfort that the following sentence was given: "The bird flew over the house." Accompanying it was the query, "Is 'flew' a regular or an irregular verb?"

One teacher after another shook his head hopelessly despite the slow, thought inspiring fashion in which the examiner repeated the perplexing fact that "The — bird — flew — over — the — house."

Finally a man rose in the rear, and, with the assurance of one who puts his trust in logic and a practical knowledge of natural history, he volunteered a solution. Said he:

"If that bird which flew over the house was a wild goose, it went in a straight, regular line, so the verb is regular. But if it was a peckwood that flew over the house, then it went in a crooked, zigzag line, and so the verb is irregular."

All but the grammar bound examiner were satisfied with this sensible and rational explanation. — Youth's Companion.

Artistic Slips.

It is a frequent matter of lamentation on the part of artists that one of their number may spend genius and time on a piece of work, only to fail conspicuously in small detail.

There is a story that one Royal academician gave a hand five fingers and a thumb and that another painted a live lobster bright red.

The clever Goodall had been engaged in painting a number of laborers dragging a huge stone across the desert when a man of science entering the studio said to him: "I say, Goodall; if you want those fellows to pull that stone you must double their number. It would require just twice as many for the task."

But it is not modern painters alone who slip up on points of accuracy. Even Albrecht Durer in a scene representing Peter denying Christ painted one of the Roman soldiers in the act of smoking. Turner put a rainbow beside the sun, and in another picture he got fearfully tangled in the ship's rigging.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Fixing a Photografter.

Senator Stone of Missouri once made himself unpopular with a certain photographer. The latter individual appeared at the senator's room at the capitol and announced that he was there to take a picture. Stone expostulated, but in vain. A few days later the photographer again appeared and presented the pictures and also a bill for $10. Remembering how hopeless was his argument against having the picture taken, Senator Stone decided it would be still more useless for him to decline to pay for them. So he wrote a check. After the man's name was on the check he wrote the word "Photografter."

When the man presented the check at the senate disbursing office for payment, he was required to indorse the check and write after his name, just as it was written on the face of the check, the word "Photo-grafter."—St. Louis Republic.

A Limit to His Power.

A curious historical anecdote is handed down from the time of James I. James, being in want of £20,000, applied to the corporation for a loan. The corporation refused. The king insisted. "But, sire, you cannot compel us," said the lord mayor. "No," exclaimed James, "but I'll ruin you and the city forever. I'll remove my courts of law, my court itself and my parliament to Winchester or to Oxford and make a desert of Westminster, and then think what will become of you!" "May it please your majesty," replied the lord mayor, "you are at liberty to remove yourself and your courts to wherever you please; but, sire, there will always be one consolation to the merchants of London—your majesty cannot take the Thames along with you!"

Garrick's Wit.

David Garrick on one occasion passed Tyburn as a huge crowd was assembling to witness the execution of a criminal. "Who is he?" asked the great actor of a friend who accompanied him.

"I believe his name is Vowel," was the reply.

"Ah," said Garrick, "I wonder which of the vowels he is, for there are several. At all events it is certain that it is neither U nor I!"—London Saturday Review.

Quite Natural.

"Of course," said the tourist, "you know all about the antidotes for snake bite?"

"Certainly," replied the explorer.

"Well, when a snake bites you what's the thing you do?"

"Yell."—Philadelphia Press.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

SOMETHING OF A PAST.

A most unpleasant creature
Is the man who knows it all.
He talks to you in private
When he ought to hire a hall.
Then he could touch the button
And talk and talk away,
And only those need listen
Who felt inclined to pay.

His bump of egotism
Is like a cannon ball,
His fund of information
Is always at your call,
And his advice is ready
And guaranteed to fit,
Though not a soul has asked him
To shed a bunch of it.

He rises in a meeting,
Where things are running smooth,
And wants to switch the current
To his own private groove,
And with his explanations,
As tangled as a skein,
He gives to all his hearers
A most decided pain—

A bore from whom few meetings
And lodges are exempt,
And one is always tempted
To treat him with contempt,
But if he puts your patience
To too much of a tax
The better way to treat him
Is with a large, bright ax.

Variegated.

If striving after greatness
The Chinaman got blue,
'Twould be a yellow peril
Of quite another hue.

Right Up to Date.

"That asylum for the deaf and dumb has all of the modern conveniences."

"That is nice."

"They even have dumb waiters."

Good Reason.

"I notice you always smoke cigars," said the man with the black brier.

"Yes; I can't smoke a pipe."

"Don't like 'em?"

"Yes, but I can't smoke 'em."

"Burn your tongue?"

"No."

"What's the reason, then?"

"My wife won't let me."

Just a Vacation.

"Do you believe in lucky days?"

"Sure. I had a whole week of them once all at one time."

"How did that happen?"

"My wife went away on a visit."

Declining Early.

"She is quite a sprightly person."

"Yes, for one in her declining years."

"She hasn't got that far along."

"Yes; she is declining marriage proposals right along."

Local Option Explained.

We would have been glad to record in connection with this report that "standing room was at a premium," but sad to relate there are many voters, and others, in Bellefonte who are not willing to be educated along temperance lines. It is the supposition of many who never attend meeting of this kind that a temperance meeting is nothing but a harrangue against the saloon keepers and a tale of woe of drunkeness. The court house was little more than half filled.

Mr. H. A. Davis of Altoona, a prominent lawyer and member of the Anti-Saloon League, was the speaker of the evening. At the very beginning of his address he got down to business and explained in a manner that could be understood by all, what local option really meant. He stated that it was misunderstood by many and that the allied liquor associations were trying to make the people believe that local option was prohibition. Mr. Davis spoke at some length along this line and the audience being composed of men and women who were there to be educated on the temperance question listened with rapt attention. The speaker gave various reasons why Pennsylvania should have local option and rebutted numerous arguments of the liquor people in a manner that threw a new light on the subject. He also spoke of the results of local option and state-wide prohibition in other states and results obtained.

Mr. Davis is a very forceful and convincing speaker and his address Friday evening was considered by all present to be one of the best temperance lectures ever given in Bellefonte.

D. F. Fortney made an appeal for financial assistance on the part of the committee and remarked that too many people were getting the cart before the horse, stating that their intention is not to get immediate local option or prohibition, but to place in nomination men who are favorable to local option legislation.

A male quartette and a vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening concluded the mas meeting.

A Flank Movement

While the Anti-Saloon Leagues are pushing their forces in the campaign against the liquor traffic, the young soldiers of the Bellefonte Safeguard Temperance Band were bringing up the rear in the Court House Friday afternoon, greatly encouraged by the presence and helpful cooperation of Mr. H. A. Davis of Altoona, the venerable Rev. Joseph C. Kelley, D. D. of Vandergrift, Rev. Ambrose Schmidt, our soloist, Miss Bettie Heinle, our gifted elocutionist, Miss Rachel Shuey, our efficient pianist, and others we could name. At the close of the drill for future service, a ten-year-old Safeguard boy said to me, "I like this, when's the next?"

On this line of effort, united and ceaseless for the saving of our growing youth, I mean all under 21 years of age, in a few years, every dramshop in the land must close its doors for lack of patronage, and no political maneuvering could prevent it. These young, plastic and hopeful boys need more encouragement from their parents and teachers. Our warfare on this "The Lord's side" wins the victory and the reward everlasting.

As It Happened

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyright, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Chesterton, first honor man, captain of the football team and all around favorite, walked down the elm avenue leading to the college, lost in meditation. He never even chose the best spots on the slippery, sleety path, and beyond rubbing his ears and nose occasionally in the most absentminded way he seemed not to know that the winter was getting in its very worst blizzard.

He kicked a piece of ice out of his path viciously, all the fervor of his heart concentrating itself in the wish that it could have been Johnson of the junior class who had obstructed his path in the same manner. The mere thought of it caused him to walk out of his way to find another larger and more kickable obstacle.

The night before at the senior prom Esther Dillon had danced six times with the insufferable Johnson—and had steadfastly pleaded a full card every time Chesterton approached her. Chesterton didn't know what was the matter. Her coolness had been first perceptible on Christmas day, and the thermometer had dropped steadily until it had, he realized, reached absolute freezing point. In his steadily growing desire to see the image of Johnson in every kickable object he finally overreached himself and sat down on the ground with a badly sprained ankle.

Esther Dillon, whose father was a teacher of mathematics and lived within the college grounds, on her way home from an afternoon's shopping came upon him suddenly as he was trying his foot to see if he could manage to hobble to the dormitory.

"You develop new traits daily, Mr. Chesterton," she said in the politely frigid tone she had used for six weeks. "I never dreamed any one could find pleasure in sitting on the ice covered edge of a carriage drive. Does the approaching twilight seem more soulful from such standpoint?"

He stood up hastily on his one sound foot and smiled grimly.

"Standpoint seems an inaccuracy of speech, Miss Esther, and really I have become so acclimated to chilliness in the last few weeks that I didn't notice the temperature of the pavement by anything but normal. Perhaps you wouldn't mind being friendly long enough to help a fellow reach the dormitory. You see, I've sprained my ankle"—

"Oh," she said, quickly sympathetic, "let me run to the gymnasium and send some of the boys! Does it hurt much?"

"Pretty bad, but I don't mind the pain so much if I can manage to hobble on. I was just taking a long breath to shout for one of the fellows, but I would rather have you help me if you don't mind. I'll put my hand on your shoulder to steady myself, and I think I can manage some kind of a halting gait."

The girl in her sympathy forgot the grievance she had against him, and with every limping step Chesterton grew more firmly convinced that being a cripple for life might have its compensations.

"What made you do it?" he asked abruptly. The shoulder he was leaning on twitched violently.

"Do what?" she asked, with perverse feminine ignorance.

"Freeze me, ignore me, cut me, slight me, neglect me"—

"Perhaps if you wait until you reach the library you might consult the dictionary and find a few more transitive verbs," she suggested, with a gurgle of amusement.

Chesterton heard the note of laughter and came down on his lame foot with so buoyant a step that he grimaced with pain.

"Why did you do it, Esther?" he asked pleadingly.

"Why didn't you even thank me the tiniest little bit for the Christmas present I sent you?" she faltered.

Chesterton stopped and, balancing on one foot, faced her in unfeigned astonishment.

"Why—my dear girl, this is the first I have heard of it!"

"Really! Didn't you even get it?" with a joy that scarcely seemed an appropriate show of feeling for the loss of an article that she had spent so much time in selecting. "I'm so glad!" she said impulsively.

He was filled with compunction for having cherished such malicious feelings toward Johnson—Johnson wasn't half a bad fellow. He remembered that he had once liked him immensely.

"That's the reason you were not nice to me at the Christmas night reception?" he hazarded hopefully.

"Of course that was the reason. When I thanked you for the roses and you didn't say a word—not even a tiny word about the package I sent you—I thought that—men were so queer," dolefully.

"Of course I seemed a downright brute and barbarian," berating himself manfully. "And I went to that reception with my courage screwed to the highest notch. I wanted to ask you if you wouldn't miss me enough at the end of the term to—er—you know this is my last year, Esther," he finished awkwardly.

"Y-e-s—it's your last year," she repeated softly.

"Esther, suppose that package hadn't gone astray—and I had let you see how overjoyed I was to have you think to send me anything—anything on earth, from a pale blue necktie to a white elephant—anything on earth that you had thought to send of your own accord," magnanimously, "do you think that you would have been nice enough to me to have given me courage to tell you what I wanted to say?" He tried to see her face in the fast gathering darkness.

"It wasn't pale blue nor so large as an elephant," she parried.

"My dear girl, I find I can't possibly walk without supporting myself more." He put his arm across her shoulders and then scowled to see they were nearing the electric light on the driveway.

"I think it was the prettiest poster I ever saw," she said. And Chesterton's heart leaped when she reached up and patted the hand on her shoulder.

"I am coming over the first minute I can hobble with a stick and ask Professor Dillon if he wouldn't like a son-in-law," joyfully."

The innocent Mr. Johnson, who had been utterly condemned and afterward pardoned, came near falling to his former estate by appearing suddenly on the scene.

"Hello, old chap; anything serious? I'll lend a hand," he said with the misplaced cheerfulness of a life saving hero. The girl, surrendering her charge, hurried down a bypath to their cottage.

That night Chesterton, in bath robe and slippers and absolute happiness, put down his pipe to take the note and the package that were handed him.

"Wasn't I stupid?" he read. "I did this package up carefully, the first of all my presents. I put it in the music cabinet for safe keeping and thought I had mailed it. Mother found it this afternoon. I don't know if you would really like to have such an absentminded wife—she might forget to have your dinner on time—but I asked father myself, and he was almost as pleased as"—

Chesterton stood on his feet in his ebullition of spirits and sat down just as suddenly.

"But I don't mind a sprained ankle at all." He stroked the swollen foot contentedly. "It's a blamed good investment."

This Busy Age.

"This is a busy age, sure enough," said a man who prides himself on keeping in touch with old friends. "We get new proofs of it every day. Not only do we find that we ourselves have less and less time to devote to this, that and the other thing, but we have it brought in upon us that everybody is pretty much in the same fix.

"The other morning I had a letter from a chap whom I know pretty well. I say it was a letter. It was and it wasn't, and in that contradiction lies the point of my remark. A bit of good fortune had happened to him. He had been given a position that counted for a lot, and his home paper had printed an item about it. Wanting to tell me of his luck, he had clipped the item from the sheet, pasted it on a piece of paper and forwarded it to me with his initials scrawled across the bottom. Five years ago he would have sat down and written me. Now he uses shears and paste. Oh, it's all right. I got the information, and that's the main thing. But we're all pretty busy, aren't we?" he concluded.—New York Press.

When Turkeys Are Angry.

In countries where flocks of turkeys are raised one can learn very quickly from their gobblings when they have captured a hare. If they meet him standing still or lying down they form in a circle around him and, putting their heads down, repeat their peculiar cries. The hare remains quiet, and it is sometimes possible to take him up, terrorized as he is in the midst of the black circle of gobbling beaks and heads. The language of the turkeys is at that time incontestably significant. It is warlike and similar to that of the males when they are fighting. In the present instance they have joined for war, and they make it on the frightened hare.

All Lives Are Interesting.

Not a blade of grass but has a story to tell, not a heart but has its romance, not a life that does not hide a secret which is either its thorn or its spur. Everywhere grief, hope, comedy, tragedy, even under the petrification of old age, as in the twisted forms of fossils, we may discover the agitations and tortures of youth. This thought is the magic wand of poets and preachers. It strips the scales from our fleshly eyes and gives us a clear view into human life. It opens to the ear a world of unknown melodies and makes us understand the thousand languages of nature.—H. F. Amiel.

Life Guards.

The Life Guard's are two regiments o cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallan soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements, as colds, influenza, catarrh the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greatest the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Unintentional Sabbath Breaking.

In the early days of New England it was the custom to keep the Sabbath from sundown Saturday night until the same hour on Sunday. That this practice was attended by pitfalls is shown by an incident told in "The Papers of the Connecticut Valley Historical Society:"

There lived in Ryefield a thrifty dame, an enterprising, driving woman and a notable housewife. The good woman was not willing to lose Sunday evenings out of her catalogue of housework, but she was pious withal and strictly kept the day to the sunset limit. As soon as the sun was fairly below the horizon she would begin her washing and get her clothes ready for drying bright and early on Monday morning.

One cloudy Sunday she, supposing the day was ended, changed her Sunday gown, rolled up her sleeves and went to work. As she was scrubbing away in the kitchen, her face toward the west window, the clouds suddenly broke, and the great round sun shone in full on the poor Sabbath breaker at work. She gave one cry of amazement and horror and fled the kitchen.

After that sinful day she never began her work on Sunday evening.

Lincoln's Rules.

On one occasion President Lincoln on entering the telegraph office of the war department, writes Mr Bates in "Lincoln in the Telegraph Office" was heard to remark to Secretary Seward: "By jings, governor, we are here at last!" Turning to him in a reproving manner, Mr. Seward said, "Mr. President, where did you learn that inelegant expression?" Without replying to the secretary, Lincoln addressed the telegraph operators, saying:

"Young gentlemen, excuse me for swearing before you. 'By jings' is swearing, for my good old mother taught me that anything that had a 'by' before it was swearing."

One day Secretary Seward, who was not renowned as a joker, said he had been told that a short time before on a street crossing Lincoln had been seen to turn out in the mud to give a colored woman a chance to pass.

"Yes," said Lincoln, "it has been a rule of my life that if people would not turn out for me I would turn out for them. Then you avoid collisions."

What He Meant.

Park row at 1 a. m. and a policeman and a sailor in conversation.

"Keyside, keyside!" said the sailor. "'Ow will Hi reach the bloomin' keyside?"

"G'wan wid ye. D'ye think I'm a locksmith, that I know about yer old key and its side? There's one key and lock I'll be after givin' ye, and that's to a cell. Move on now."

"Keyside! Hi said keyside as plain as hit could, blime!"

Just then a high brow who had been to the postoffice buying stamps so that his rejected contributions would come back to him stepped up.

"The man wants the keyside, whatever that is, and I dunno," said the policeman. "I believe he's looney and I'll run him in."

"He wants the quayside—the docks," said the high brow as he directed the man to the water front, while the policeman said:

"Well, I'll be blowed!"—New York Press.

A Slap at Mother.

Dinner was done, and the family was assembled in the sitting room. Mother had taken up the evening paper and was reading an account of how a highwayman had been operating in the suburbs. Father was down on his hands and knees trying to act like a horse while little Willie drove him around the floor.

"Papa," finally remarked the good lady, glancing toward her husband, "here is a story about another man who was waylaid. Do these holdups always stop you with a pistol and then go through your clothes?"

"Oh, no," grinfully replied father, arising from the floor. "Sometimes they wait until you hang your clothes over the back of a chair and go to sleep."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Nevertheless He Got Her.

"You say my daughter loves you?" questioned the old man.

"I'm sure of it," replied the young man.

"Well, well," returned the old man, looking the young man over critically. "There's no accounting for tastes, is there?"

And somehow, although the young man knew that he ought to be happy over the possession of the girl, he couldn't help scowling and speculating on that remark of the old man's.

Power of Deceiving.

There is a Brooklyn woman who possesses a servant who is a model in all respects save one—in that she is none too truthful.

Lately the mistress has been using all her eloquence to make Nora see the error of deceitfulness. But at last she had to own herself beaten when Nora, with a beaming smile, turned and in a most cajoling tone said:

"Sure, now, mum, an' wot de ye suppose the power of desavin' was given us fer?"

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.

Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—

In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.

Yours very truly,

C. N. CORNELL.

The old members of Co. B, of this place are much interested in the movement.

EDITORIAL.

THE people are beginning to think that the beef trust is a hog.

THE noiseless gun will not cut much of a figure on the Fourth of July.

JUDGING from cartoons, serious fashion pictures and actual displays in shop windows, the coming Easter hat, like man, is "wonderfully and fearfully made."

FOR those who can afford it physicians prescribe the "rest cure." But now comes a Boston neurologist to destory this tradition of the healing art, and for nervous persons he recommends the "work cure."

Not Typical Americans.

There are some people who declaim against so much space in the newspapers being given to the scandalous conduct of the extremely rich members of New York's smart set. The fact that the newspapers print a great deal about the Vanderbilts and the Goulds and their kind is proof that the doings of these people are remarkable; that they do not represent the true American famlies, but are imitators of the corrupt social conditions which exist in the older countries. The typical American woman and the true American man do not give the newspapers a chance to exploit their scandalous doings from day to day.

It must be remembered that the people who are now so prominent in the public eye in New York are the descendants of rich men, who left their millions, but little brains to their children. These wealthy people imagine that they can do as they please. They are now not averse to defying law and morals in their actions, and notoriety is dear to their hearts. But they comprise a very small part of the citizenship of this country. Where there is one member of the smart set who indulges in disgraceful conduct there are ten thousand men and women who live cleanly and honorably.—Williamsport News.

Explanation and Market Reports.

The latest boost to the already lofty prices of meat was justified by the allegation that as the stock growers rushed all their cattle and hogs to market last fall in order to escape the high prices of feed the arrivals now are so small that prices have to advance. This ignored the omission to reduce prices last fall when the live stock market was overstocked. But it sounded so plausible that a much-enduring public swallowed it without much more difficulty than the high-priced meats.

But an insurrectionary disturber of prosperity has indulged in the pernicious activity of referring to the stockyard reports. He finds that the arrivals of live stock during March largely exceeded those of last year. Also the market reports of the Chicago papers set forth that for the very week in which the advance was made the demand was limited and prices 15 to 25 cents lower on beeves and 25 cents lower than a year ago.

Reasons are plenty as blackberries when the combination wishes to advance prices. But the little matter of making reasons correspond with the facts of the market is sometimes overlooked in the hurry of the moment.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Good News from West.

That is a cheerful announcement that comes from the bounding west. Thousands of men will be needed on the railroads to make repairs and renewals before the moving of the crops begins! The start on this work will depend somewhat on the state of the weather. The Southwest is already at it and the crop prospects in Oklahoma and Texas were never better. Farther north the beginning will be later, but should be in full swing clear up to the Canadian border in May. Then if the crops fulfill their promise all that broad land will be teeming with gladness, if not literally flowing with milk and honey. They run more to wheat and corn and hogs out that way than to bees and dairy products, though the beef cattle are much in evidence. It is good news and there will be more of it.

No doubt those fingerling trout which were placed in the streams a short time ago, have already served as food for hungry fish.

Out of Danger.

The announcement that Senator Penrose is out of danger and has reached the convalescent stage will be received with good will and congratulation by the public generally. The Senator has had a hard fight for his life, and the news that he has won is good news to all, without regard to party. There is plenty of opposition to the political system for which Senator Penrose stands. But that antagonism in principle does not preclude personal sympathy when a man is struggling with severe illness that threatens to be fatal, and unfeigned relief when he is fairly on the road to recovery. All the State will wish Penrose a successful convalescence.

COL. HOMER RIGGS.

Col. Homer Riggs, Inspector General on the staff of the National Commander of the Union Veteran Legion, writes from the Pension Bureau, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I thank you very much for calling my attention to Peruna. It is a pleasant and effective tonic, cures and prevents colds and catarrhal affections, and also acts upon the liver. I can recommend it as a safe and reliable medicine."

Terrible Case of Indigestion.

Mr. Donald Robb, Jr., 16 Wrights Ave., Nova Scotia, Canada, Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger, Independent Order of Forresters, writes:

"While on a visit to Boston I must have eaten something that did not agree with my stomach, as a terrible case of indigestion followed. Peruna was recommended to me, and after using three bottles I was entirely cured. I therefore recommend Peruna to any one suffering with stomach trouble."

Every Trace of Catarrh Gone.

Mr. James P. Bracken, 610 Tenth Ave., New York City, N. Y., has occupied the office of Water Inspector of New York City for the past fifteen years. He carries on an extensive plumbing business at 610 Tenth Ave. He is Post Deputy of Grand Knights of Reigna Celia Council Knights of Columbus, N. Y. He writes as follows:

"For nearly a dozen years catarrh has bothered me in one form or another. I was troubled with nasal catarrh, that had affected my stomach, which troubled me most in the morning. My appetite was poor, and I did not seem to relish my food. Indigestion bothered me at times also.

"I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month, when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

Agreeable and Effective Tonic.

Corporal John Finn, Washington, D. C., veteran soldier of the Civil War, a prominent Grand Army man and commander of the oldest post in the United States, John A. Rawlins Post No. 1, department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, writes:

"Peruna was recommended to me by many of my associates, and I have given it a fair trial. Have found it a most agreeable and effective tonic, pleasant, soothing, and leaves one free from the deleterious effects produced by the many nostrums now on the market. I have suffered from catarrhal afflictions the past winter, and have found Peruna most beneficial and commend it for what it has done for me."

Relieves Mind and Body.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"When body and mind alike were weary and refused to work, a few doses of Peruna restored lost strength and invigorated quicker and more permanently than anything I know."

Unhesitatingly Recommends Pe-ru-na.

J. Edwin Browne, National Commander Army and Navy Union of U. S. A., 410 11th St., N. E. Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have no hesitation in endorsing your Peruna as a most efficient cure for catarrh. My own experience and that of many friends who have been benefited by its use recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. These tablets represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, and each tablet is equivalent to one average dose.

The Family Relies on Pe-ru-na.

A. Howitt Nickerson, Captain U. S. Army, Adjutant General on General McCook's staff, writes from the Census Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"It affords me great pleasure to commend Peruna as a most excellent tonic with many medicinal qualities that assist nature in overcoming the various ills with which the human family is often afflicted, and is always in danger.

"As a general thing, I have been opposed to what are known as patent medicines, but Peruna has long since overcome this feeling. It is now, as it has been for a long time, a well-established family medicine with us, upon which we rely to give tired nature substantial restoration."

Bathing a Prince.

George IV. while prince and residing in his Brighton palace kept in his bedroom a portrait of Mrs. Gunn, an old bathing woman who used to dip him into the sea when he was the little Prince of Wales. A picture book much prized by children showed the old lady bathing the little fellow. Beneath the picture was this stanza:

To Brighton came he,
Came George the Third's son,
To be dipped in the sea
By the famed Martha Gunn.

A companion portrait to Martha Gunn's was that of Thomas Smoaker, who had charge of the horse which drew the bathing machines into and out of the sea. One day the little royal highness, having learned to swim, swam out farther than Thomas judged to be safe. He called to him to come back, but the self willed boy struck out with more vigor. Thomas went after the prince, overtook him, seized him by an ear and drew him to shore.

"Do you think," he replied to the boy's angry words, "I'm a-going to get myself hanged for letting the king's heir drown hisself just to please a youngster like you?"

Only a Dodge.

An insurance expert was relating in Chicago some oddities of insurance.

"And then," said the expert, "there was that case of the general store man in Ohio. This man's store burned down, and, because his stock was so heavy, the company disputed his claim. I remember one item in his stock list—17,500 mourning hatbands. When I came to this item I thumped it with my pencil and said to the storekeeper severely:

"'Look here, this is unreasonable. Why should you have had 17,500 mourning hatbands in stock? What possibility was there that death would create in a single small shop like yours a demand for 17,500 mourning hatbands?'

"The storekeeper smiled at me in a condescending way and replied:

"'I didn't keep those hatbands for men who grieved for the death of relatives or friends, but for men who went into mourning for the grease on their hats.'"—Boston Globe.

Misfires of Young Idea.

Air usually has no weight, but when placed in a barometer it is found to weigh about fifteen pounds a square inch.

If a small hole were bored in the top of a barometer tube, the mercury would shoot up in a column thirty feet high.

Senate and Lords.

The British house of lords is a survival of the ancient aristocracy of the kingdom, which for a long time was supreme in all national matters. When the democratic sentiment won a place for itself in the shape of the house of commons the natural and apparently indestructible conservatism of the British people held on to the house of lords as a check upon the commons and a perpetual reminder of the ancient institution. The senate of the United States was the result of the compromise struck between the Nationalists and States' Rights parties in the convention that formed the constitution. Some were for merging the representatives in a single body, while others insisted upon the second chamber (the senate) as a recognition of the political equality of the states.

Lacked Something.

"You Germans have no sense of humor," said an American.

"Try me and see," said the German.

"Well," said the American, "you know America is the home of very large things—the highest mountains, the greatest waterfalls"—

"Oh, yes, yes, yes," said the German.

"And our trees," continued the American, "are so tall that in order to see to the top of them one man looks as far up as he can, and another man begins where the first man leaves off and looks up to the top."

"But dat vass no joke; dat vass a lie."

A Boston Correction.

Bilkins had recently moved from New York to Boston. The other morning he went to the butcher's.

"Give me a nice porterhouse," he ordered.

"Extremely sorry, sir," said the proprietor of the establishment urbanely "but we are not giving anything away this morning."—Harper's Weekly.

The Truth.

Fear is not in the habit of speaking truth. When perfect sincerity is expected, perfect wisdom must be allowed. Nor has any one who is apt to be angry when he hears the truth any cause to wonder that he does not hear it.—Tacitus.

Too Healthy.

"Do you believe that mosquitoes carry malaria?"

"Not the mosquitoes around here," answered Farmer Corntossel. "They couldn't possibly do it and be so healthy."—Washington Star.

Persistency is the road to success. The only known exception to this rule is the case of a hen sitting on a china egg.—Exchange.

The Reason.

"Why do you always make such a noise when you shut the front door?" asked mamma.

"So that you will know I haven't left it open, mamma," explained Freddie.

Open Publicity

Insures a fair, square and honest deal. It characterises the policy of Dr. Pierce as relates to the composition of his time-proven and most popular medicines. Their ingredients are on each bottle-wrapper, attested under oath and printed in plain English. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments and sold by druggists, the makers of which publish on each bottle-wrapper what the medicine contains.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol, and no narcotics or other harmful or habit-forming drugs, as will be seen from its published ingredients. It contains only such native, medicinal roots as are most highly recommended by leading medical writers and practitioners of all the several schools of practice, for the cure of woman's delicate and peculiar ailments. It is safe for women to take in any condition of the system, as it assists Nature in restoring the healthful action of all the organs distinctly feminine.

Nature's own cure. In fact, "Favorite Prescription" is Nature's own cure for the many derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is advised for no other diseases.

If you are a weak, tired, nervous, over-worked, broken-down, pain-racked woman, either young, old or middle-aged, suffering from frequent headaches, backaches, dizziness or fainting spells, gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps see imaginary specks, or dark spots floating before the eyes, have dragging-down or heavy feeling in lower abdomen, or pelvic region, with, perhaps, pelvic catarrh, or other symptoms of functional or organic affections of the distinctly feminine organs, then you will make no mistake if you resort to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The most advanced medical science knows no better agents for the cure of all such diseases than are happily and harmoniously combined in this widely-famed "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce.

You can't afford to accept any secret nostrum of unknown composition and of questionable merit as a substitute for this professionally endorsed and time-tested remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, simply that some unprincipled dealer may make a little larger profit. Don't expect it to perform miracles but give it a fair, persevering trial and it is not likely to disappoint you. It won't "dissolve tumors"—no medicine will. It will cure a larger percentage of all curable ailments which especially afflict womankind than any other medicine sold by druggists for that purpose.

As to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery it has a very large range of application, yet it is by no means recommended as a "Cure-All." It possesses marvelous alterative, or blood cleansing, properties and is at the same time a most invigorating tonic, or strength giver. It exerts a specific, cleansing, soothing and healing effect upon all the lining mucous membranes of the system; hence, its great curative value in all catarrhal affections, no matter where located.

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the passages two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid, while persisting in the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific curative effects upon the diseased mucous membranes. It will cure a very large per cent. of all cases, even after they have reached the ulcerative, or chronic stage, and no matter of how many years' standing they may be. It is equally efficacious in affections of the mucous lining of the larynx, bronchia and respiratory organs in general, thus curing bronchitis, laryngitis and other affections giving rise to obstinate, hang-on-coughs. It is not so good in acute coughs following sudden colds, as in the lingering, chronic coughs. Nor must the "Golden Medical Discovery" be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that, but for all obstinate hang-on-coughs due to laryngial or bronchial irritation and kindred affections, of the throat which, if neglected or badly treated, are likely to lead up to consumption, the "Discovery" can be relied upon to produce the best curative results.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is, from its tonic and specific curative control over mucous surfaces, especially efficacious in curing indigestion, dyspepsia, weak stomach and "Liver Complaint," or biliousness. Even ulceration of the stomach and bowels has in thousands of cases been cured by it; also obstinate chronic diarrhea.

In addition to all the foregoing, not the least valuable of the marvelously efficacious properties possessed by the "Discovery" is the unequaled regulating and strengthening effect exerted by it over the heart's action. It has made some wonderful cures of very pronounced valvular and other affections of that organ.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures so wide a range of diseases is made plain in a booklet sent free on request mailed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. If interested, send for it.

The powerful alterative or blood purifying properties possessed by the "Discovery" will naturally suggest its use for the cure of blotches, pimples, eruptions; as eczema, salt-rheum, and other skin affections in all of which it has made remarkable cures; also in scrofulous sores and old, open ulcers, or eating sores. To heal the latter, use Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local application, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to correct the blood and cleanse the system. A box will be mailed to any address on receipt of fifty-four cents in stamps. If your druggist don't have it in stock, address Dr. Pierce, as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Easy to take as candy.

Water and Life.

Of all the conditions preparatory to life the presence of water, composed of oxygen and hydrogen, is at once the most essential and the most worldwide, for if water be present the presence of other necessary elements is probably assured. If water exist, that fact goes bail for the necessary temperature, the gamut of life being coextensive with the existence of water as such. It is so consequentially, life being impossible without water. Whatever the planet, this is of necessity true. But the absolute degrees of temperature within which life can exist vary according to the mass of the body, another of the ways in which mere size tells. On the earth 212 degrees F. limits the range at the top and 32 degrees F. at the bottom in the case of fresh water, 27 degrees F. in the case of salt. On a smaller planet both limits would be lowered, the top one the most. On Mars the boiling point would probably be about 110 degrees F. Secondly, from the general initial oneness of their constituents a planet that still possesses water will probably retain the other substances that are essential to life—gases, for the reason that water vapor is next to hydrogen and helium the lightest of them all, and solids because their weight would still more conduce to keep them there. Water, indeed, acts as a solution to the whole problem.—Professor Lowell's "The Evolution of Life" in Century Magazine.

Only an Office Boy.

"If you want a ready-to-hand study in the downright cussedness of human nature unwarped," said an insurance agent, "just watch the office boys in your own or any other place of business. In four cases out of five the thing will come out this way:

"A new boy is engaged. He is meek and mild, apologetic of bearing and courteous of speech. He is apparently seeking an excuse for daring to make a living. He looks reproachfully at the head office boy, who orders him around in a rough, catch-as-catch-can style. Such rudeness pains him.

"Note this boy a little later. His rude superior has resigned or been dismissed, and he is now head office boy. Is he meek and mild, apologetic and reproachful? Say, he's a worse young ruffian than his predecessor—bullyrags the newcomer, ignores the cuspidor, uses language not fit to print and comes dangerously near 'sassing' his employer. He knows it all, and a little more.

"There are exceptions, but they prove the rule."—New York Globe.

A Big Grasshopper.

A geographical expedition which set out for Australia on an exploring and mapmaking tour had engaged a negro cook, who took great interest in everything he saw. While the party was en route a kangaroo broke out of the grass and made for the horizon with prodigious leaps, an event that interested the colored gentleman exceedingly.

"You all have pretty wide meadows hereabouts, I reckon," he said to the native who was guiding the party.

"Not any larger than those of other countries," returned the guide most politely.

"Well, there must be mighty powerful high grass roundabouts, heh?" he insisted.

"Not that I know of," replied the guide. "Why do you ask such odd questions?"

"Why, I'll tell you, boss. I was thinkin' of the mighty uncommon magnitude of them grasshoppers."—Kansas City Independent.

An Artist's Ruse.

A Roman cavalier commissioned a great artist to paint his portrait, no definite price being agreed upon. When the portrait was finished, the painter asked 100 crowns in payment. The highborn sitter, amazed at the demand, returned no more nor dared to send for his counterfeit presentment, whereupon the artist hit upon the happy expedient of first painting bars across the portrait, then affixing the doleful legend, "Imprisoned for debt," and finally placing it in a prominent part of his studio, to which Roman nobles frequently resorted. Ere long a rich relative came to the rescue and released his kinsman.

Newton's Telescope.

Newton's telescope is a clumsy looking instrument, nine inches in length, two inches in aperture and capable of magnifying thirty-eight times. It was entirely made by Newton himself, who first exhibited it before the Royal society in 1671, and more than 100 years later his successor in the presidency of the society laid before George III. Sir William Herschel's scheme for making a telescope on Newton's plan, to be forty feet in length and four feet in aperture.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Financial Expedient.

Kept Busy.

One of the contemporary poets asks, "Where are the bright girls of the past?" Our own observation is that some of them are administering cautious doses of paregoric to the bright girls of the future.

Tender Hearted.

Mrs. Muggins—My husband is too tender hearted to whip the children. Mrs. Buggins—Humph! My husband is so tender hearted that he can't even beat the carpet!

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonte citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates-it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

The hog should not only have a clean place in which to rest and sleep, but a clean trough in which to eat even if it will put up with one that is dirty.

Where circumstances permit it is well to have the pasture divided into two fields, which will not only make it possible for each field to get a rest by turns, but to be rinsed and cleaned by the summer rains.

It is estimated that the decrease in bird life in the last twenty years has averaged 20 per cent. One will readily understand what this means in added license for insect life if he will watch a single robin at work feeding her young on a summer morning.

A kite raised not long ago by an eastern astronomer to the height of 21,000 feet, or nearly four miles, registered a temperature at that height of 1.10 degrees below zero. This would seem to indicate in interstellar space a degree of cold that to the human mind is almost inconceivable.

A two line local in the home paper will in nine cases out of ten enable one to find a buyer for the article he wants to dispose of as well as quickly locate the party who has the thing that he may be in need of. Try it once if the method is new to you and see if this statement is not correct.

A lady friend of the writer states that she wishes to register a protest against the planting of apple and plum trees on the lawn, it being her thought that the fallen fruit makes an unsightly litter and that it also serves to attract numerous house flies. We are not at all sure that the lady is not right and that such trees were better grown in the garden patch.

Any method of seeding small grain which leaves a considerable portion of it uncovered or at so shallow a depth that it does not germinate is without question just so far careless and wasteful. That is why a drill is preferable to the common broadcast seeder, for with the former not only is less seed required to cover a given piece of ground, but a better yield is received from that which is sowed.

We read the other day of a farmer who had a good idea of the eternal fitness of things and was pretty level headed. He sent his wife, son and daughter to the state agricultural short course, while he himself stayed at home, did the chores and concocted his own coffee and flapjacks. They undoubtedly appreciated his self sacrifice, the exercise of which without question had a wholesome influence upon himself.

It is just as often bad management as ill luck or misfortune that is responsible for a fellow's not getting ahead in the world. We have in mind the case of an acquaintance who does not seem to appreciate the financial inconsistency involved in laying himself and his team off a job at which he realizes $3 per day to haul a $2.50 jag of hay. It does not require an expert financial accountant to make an accurate estimate of this man's financial status.

Among the best bird friends of the orchard trees may be mentioned the nuthatches, chickadees, goldfinches, woodpeckers and bluejays. One species inspects the trunks and limbs, another guards the twigs and leaves, while still another looks for its insect food upon the ground beneath the trees. Were it not for the myriads of insect eggs, larvae and insects which these birds destroy during the fall, winter and spring months and against which they also wage a continual warfare during the summer months the trees would be able to live but for a short time.

An experiment conducted last season by Lord Kennard of the Royal Agricultural Society of Great Britain, while carried out under somewhat different conditions from those that prevail in this country, still has a real value for every American farmer who is interested in the most economical handling of his farm fertilizers. In the experiment referred to two tenacre fields lying side by side and of the same fertility and character of soil were fertilized, the one with manure which was left out in the weather from the time of its accumulation to the time it was spread on the land, while on the second plot of ground was scattered manure that had been kept under cover and as a consequence contained virtually all of its fertilizing power. When he gathered his crops from these in the fall he found that the last named plot yielded 150 more bushels of potatoes per acre and 120½ bushels more wheat than that which had been fertilized by the leeched and weakened manure. It is worth while for the farmer to inquire which of these two systems he is working under.

It is not necessary for one to have the experience himself to be persuaded of the fact that it is wise in embarking in new undertakings to start in on a modest scale. While the profits may not be large, neither are the disappointments.

A dirty creamery patron can counteract and overturn the science and skill of the best buttermaker that ever lived and not only defraud himself out of profits that he might just as well have, but work a like injustice to every other patron of the same concern.

With an increase in the value of their lands American people must of necessity practice in a larger measure the thrift of the foreign folk who come to our shores, who in their native lands are compelled to exercise an economy that aims to utilize everything that can possibly be used.

The time is approaching rapidly when the many varieties of our song birds are going to be viewed primarily on the basis of their value in dollars and cents to the agricultural and horticultural interests of the country and secondarily because of their sweet songs, which meet an aesthetic need in the human heart.

While very different in size and general appearance, the bluejay and the common crow belong to the same species. In their habits, however, there is more similarity. Barring the carrion ration of the latter, their bill of fare is much alike, while neither bird has the migratory habit developed to any considerable extent.

No one should undertake the care of poultry or small fruit who is not willing to give them painstaking care and attention. When some one who has been successful with poultry makes a snug sum out of the business it is quite easy to forget the time and attention which was required to make such success possible.

He takes a very unreasonable, unfair and unjustifiable attitude as a member of our business and economic order who is not willing that his neighbor or his fellow should make a fair margin of profit on the business which he transacts. A failure to show this fairness and consideration is responsible for a good many small and contemptible procedures.

Due to the operation of a kindly natural law scars on the face of nature tend to heal over and become less unsightly with passing time, as do those in the human body. The fresh excavation of a gravel pit or the embankments of a railway cut are soon spread with a luxuriant carpet of grass and flowers, an unconscious attempt seeming to be made to repair the damage done and make the passerby forget.

While the home may not be large and finely furnished or the lot on which it sits of a generous size, there is no excuse if a few simple touches are not put in to add to the beauty and attractiveness of the premises. A neat grass plot, flower gardens, vines and shrubs tastily arranged can be had with a trifling expenditure of time and pains and bring a return in real satisfaction that can hardly be measured.

Reports are frequent of late of the use of the ordinary bicycle pump in the cure of milk fever. The process is a simple one. The udder of the affected animal is washed in soap and water and each quarter of the bag inflated with air forced into it by a bicycle pump through an ordinary milking tube. When filled the teats should be tied with a soft string to prevent the escape of air and each quarter gently kneaded and rubbed. This treatment has been known to effect a speedy cure in many cases.

While a thorough preparation of the soil is advisable for all farm and garden crops, there is probably no crop in which its results are more noticeable or helpful than in the case of potatoes. Putting the soil in fine tilth not only enables it to retain necessary moisture, but in backward seasons enables it to receive and retain the warmth of the sun more readily. Added to this should be mentioned the fact that if the soil is loose and fine the work of destroying myriads of weeds is greatly facilitated, which throughout the season means the reserving of just that much moisture and fertility for the potato crop. If you are doubtful about results, try giving a portion of your field extra preparation this year and see if the difference in yield at digging time does not more than pay for the extra cost of preparing the seed bed.

Dairy officials in a number of states are sending out this year explicit directions for a more sanitary and intelligent care of the milk and cream in the farm dairies. Among these directions the following points are emphasized, which it is well for all who have the care of milk and cream to keep in mind. One of the most important is an observance of strict cleanliness in the buildings and stable equipments and in the milking of the cows and handling of the cream. Another is the thorough scalding of the separator each time after its use. The third and last is the cooling of new cream before it is added to that previously skimmed or separated. While much responsibility for prime or poor butter can be laid at the door of the buttermaker, it is well to remember at the same time that it is absolutely impossible for him to overcome or eradicate contamination in a body of cream that is due to carelessness on the part of the individual patron in any one of the three respects mentioned.

SHOULD TEST THE SEED.

Perhaps there has not been a year in the past twenty when throughout the corn belt seed corn of good germinating power has been scarcer than it is going to be this year. This is due not only to the unfavorable season for the crop last year, but the usual carelessness in saving seed that was good and sound. In view of these facts it is imperative that all seed planted this year should be given a careful test, which will enable one to determine the exact germinating power of each ear. It is estimated by those in a position to know that the state of Iowa alone last year lost $45,000,000 as a result of planting poor and untested seed corn, and it is safe to say that other states lost correspondingly from the same cause. Of several plans which have been tried for the testing of seed corn perhaps there is none which is simpler or gives more satisfactory results than the Holden method. This has been given in previous years, but it is worth while repeating. It is as follows:

The germination box is a simple affair and can be made by any one in an hour's time. Any box about six inches deep and 2 by 3 feet in size may be used. Fill the box about half full of moist sand, dirt or sawdust, well pressed down, so that it will leave a smooth, even surface. In case sawdust is used it should be put in a gunny sack and set in a tub of warm water for half an hour, so that it will be thoroughly moistened before using. Take a white cloth about the size of the box and rule it off checkerboard fashion one and a half inches each way. Number the checks 1, 2, 3, and so on, and place it over the sawdust and tack to the box at the corners and edges. Lay out the ears to be tested side by side on the floor; remove one kernel from near the butt, middle and tip of the ear; turn the ear over and remove three kernels from the opposite side in like manner, making six kernels in all, thus securing a sample from the entire ear. Place the six kernels at the end of the ear from which they were taken. Use care that the kernels do not get mixed with the kernels from the ear next to it. After the kernels are removed boards may be laid over the rows of corn to keep them in place until the germination is known. Place the kernels from ear of corn No. 1 in square No. 1 of the germination box, from ear No. 2 in square No. 2, and so on with all the ears. Then place over this a cloth considerably larger than the box. Cover with about two inches of moist sand, dirt or sawdust and keep in a warm place so that it will not freeze. The sitting room will perhaps be the most suitable place. The kernels will germinate in eight to nine days. Then remove the cover carefully to avoid misplacing the kernels in the squares. A piece of thin cloth placed over the kernels before the covering is put on will prevent the kernels from sticking to the upper cover. Examine the kernels in the germination box. For example, the kernels in squares Nos. 1, 11 and 20 have failed to grow, and some of the kernels in squares Nos. 2, 3, 4, 9, 12 and 15 have refused to grow or show weak germination. The corresponding ears should be rejected. The ears showing weak germination should be treated the same as worthless ears.

ADULTERATED GRASS SEED.

Due to the unfavorable season which prevailed throughout the northern states last year, both the quantity and quality of grass seed, especially clover and alsike, were not up to the standard. As a consequence a strong temptation has been placed before unscrupulous and unreliable dealers to palm off on eager customers seed that is of very poor quality and vitality or that which is heavily adulterated with both noxious and useless weed seeds. A number of samples of clover seed which have been inspected by western experiment stations in the past few weeks have shown between 30 and 50 per cent of impurities. Recently enacted pure seed laws protect the purchasers in a good many states, giving them redress at law in case seed delivered is not as represented. In states where such laws do not exist and where it is impossible for one to secure necessary seed from a near neighbor or a home dealer who is known to be thoroughly reliable we should advise submitting a sample of seed for inspection to the specialists of the state experiment station before sending a check for the payment of it.

HOW MUCH SEED?

It is quite likely that a poor stand of clover is often due to sowing a scant allowance of seed, as well as to the fact that the seed may be poor or of weak vitality. While six quarts of seed to the acre is a practice that is quite generally followed, we believe that much better results would often be secured if this amount were increased by a quart or two. The critical time with both clover and alfalfa is the short time when the two legumes are acquiring a mastery over the weeds—that is, occupying the ground. If for any reason the plants are weak, the stand thin and the ground swarming with young weeds, the chances are that the young clover plants will be swamped and the money put into purchasing the seed virtually thrown away. Had there been a better stand the contest might have resulted differently and a fine stand of the legume been the result. In putting in clover this year make the experiment of sowing a little more seed than is customary on a portion of your land and see if the results secured justify the additional expense.

The Modern Maccabees.

Communicated.

The Knights of the Modern Maccabees was founded by Major Boynton in 1881 with its three branches, viz, The Great Camp of the Modern Maccabees the original order, organized June 11th 1881. The supreme Tent Maccabees of the world, a branch of the Modern Maccabees organized Sept. 1883. The Great Hive of the Modern Maccabbees, the original ladies order organized 1886 The Supreme Hive ladies of the Maccabees of the World, a branch of the ladies of the Modern Maccabees organized 1882. The first office was opened by Major Boynton for the transaction of business in a small room in his home in the city of Port Huron, Michigan in 1881, and on the 11th day of June articles of incorporation were drawn up and signed by the Secretary of the State, which made the Great Camp of the M. M. an indedendent organization confining its work exclusively to the state of Michigan, and by special act of the legislature passed during the session of 1883. The Great Camp of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees became the surviving heir and sole proprietor of the title of the K. O. T. M. In 1883 Major Boynton the founder of the Maccabees, and the present Great Commander of the Modern Maccabees decided to organize a supreme Tent of the K. O. T. M. with a view of extenting the benefits of the order to other states and provinces. The Supreme Tent however was not organized or incorporated until 1885, and it was then allowed to use the Ritual and take the name of the K. O. T. M. By Mutual understanding both orders adopted the same pass word from time to time and the members affiliated in a social and fraternal way. But for years after the K. O. T. M. was organized as an independent body, it was wholly under the control of the Great Camp of the Modern Maccabees, and if it had not been for certain changes made in the Supreme Tent K. O. T. M. plans of mansgement, which Major Boynton did not approve it, there would now be but one Maccabee order in the world.

In 1895 at which time Major Boynton was Supreme Record Keeper of the K. O. T. M., differences began to arise in the management of that branch of the Maccabees. Mr. Boynton steadfastly holds and maintains, that the rates of the membership should not be changed without their consent. In 1895 a proposition was made to raise the rates of the K. O. T. M. members. This Major Boynton was opposed too and defeated the proposition for that year. In 1897 another attempt was made by the Supreme Tent to change the rates Major Boynton again defeated the proposition. Two years later in 1899 the laws of the Supreme Tent K. O. T. M. was again changed that the representation of the K. O. T. M. supreme tent was reduced to less than 100 including the officers of that order. Here was the beginning of the parting of the ways. The rates of all the old members of the K. O. T. M. were raised to $3.00 a thousand at the age of 55 years resulting in the loss of more than 60,000 members in the past 4 years. During Major Boynton official connection with the Maccabees. He always made it a point to consult the membership before any radical change should be made. He believes they should be consulted at ever turn and upon all matters effecting their interests. That as the organization is a cooperative one. That as they pay the bills, the membership should be the controlling power and not the officers. Had it not been for the Hon. N. S. Boynton there would be no Maccabee order in the world today. The Knights of the Modern Maccabees have paid out since organization more than $12,000,000 every law of the State and Nation has been complied with, and it stands today in the front rank of respected and honored institutions, policies are in force at once for the full amount and paid promptly upon proof of death. The most wonderful growth in the history of the K. O. T. M. was during Major Boyntons connection with that order.

To Republican Voters of Centre County.

Some of the candidates for nomination upon the Republican ticket, as well as other Republicans, have called my attention to the fact that a report is being circulated that I am connected in some way with slating certain candidates for nomination at the Primary Election to be held April 11th next.

I wish to state that all such reports are unfounded and untrue.

As chairman of the Republican County Committee I have considered it my duty to remain neutral so that the various cannidates for nomination might make their contest on their own respective merits.

The uniform Primaries Act contemplates that the voters of the party shall choose and nominate their own candidates, and I have not slated, and do not propose or wish to slate or suggest the nomination of any special candidates on the county ticket.

The Republican voters of Centre County, in my judgement, have sufficient intelligence, and knowledge of the character and fitness of the several candidates for the various offices to which they aspire, to choose and nominate their own ticket without receiving my advice in the matter, or voting for a ticket prepared or slated by myself or any others.

April 7, 1908.

I would, however, say that the County organization is extremely anxious that a full vote be polled for Centre County's candidate for Delegate to the Republican National Convention, Colonel W. Fred Reynolds, and in a spirit of fair treatment of the different counties in this Congressional District, I would suggest your voting for the Honorable Harry Boulton, of Clearfield County, as Colonel Reynold's colleague, and for Messrs Patton and Howells, of McKean County, as alternate.

HARRY KELLER,
Chairman Republican County Committe.

Well Known Conductor Killed.

Charles H. Snyder, of Sunbury, a well known railroad conductor, was killed at Mifflinburg Tuesday afternoon. Snyder was taking his train east over the Lewisburg and Tyrone branch. When the train arrived at Mifflinburg some cars were to be shifted and he was assisting the crew in doing the work. While on top of a box car the unfortunate man was standing with his back toward a small roof projecting from the freight station struck him and knocked him off the car down underneath the wheels.

Members of the crew hurried to his assistance but found that he had been killed. The body was horribly mutilated, the head, both arms and one foot cut off. The remains were cared for at Mifflinburg and taken to Sunbury that evening.

Mr. Snyder was well known in Bellefonte and his many friends were shocked to hear of his sad and untimely death. He is survived by his wife and three children.

To the Republican Voters.

The plan of having the State pay the school tax that I propose will save the taxpayers of Bellefonte $9,40a year; 3.55 Spring township $3,610.79 a year; Benner township $1518.41 a year; the total for Centre county being $109,575.57. I earnestly ask your votes at the primaries for the nomination for Assembly to put this great tax-relief measure into effect.

To the Voters of Centre Co.

GREETING:

I have placed my name before the Republican voters for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the Legislature. In doing so I desire to say that if nominated and elected it shall be my purpose to represent the County and its interests, as well as those of the State at large, to the best of my ability. I shall be guided by the wishes of the majority of the people in the County in all matters in which they may feel locally interested. The interests of the old soldiers, and the laboring classes, our public institutions of learning, and hospitals, will command my best attention and efforts, in securing the most aid that can be obtained for them, and also in securing increased appropriations for our public schools. I shall endeavor in every way to secure such legislation as shall tend to relieve the farmer and others from the burdens of local taxation as much as is possible.

Being an enthusastic hunter and fisherman, I shall endeavor to have wise game and fish laws passed that will be restrictive in their terms, and give the hunters who live where the game is located a more reasonable opportunity to enjoy the sport they are entitled to. For instance the law that restricts a man to the shooting of one deer and that deer must have horns.

I seek the nomination as a Republican, and believe that with proper and effective organization the Republican party in Centre county shall win in the election this fall.

I shall be pleased to have you do what you can for me in behalf of my nomination and aid in getting out a full Republican vote at the Primaries to be held on Saturday April 11.

Thanking you for whatever support you may be able to give me in behalf of my nomination and election, I remain

Yours Very Truly,
W. L. FOSTER.

A Benner Township Candidate

[Advertisement]

Under the proper head, will be found the announcement of H. E. Zimmerman, of Benner township, who is a candidate for the office of County Commissioner, subject to the rules governing the Republican party. Mr. Z. was born and raised in Centre county, and has not only always been a straight Republican but an earnest worker for his party. He has followed farming all his life, in connection with which he has done considerable lumbering and running machines for threshing, baling, hulling seeds, etc., and for the past thirty-three years has given employment to a good many men, thus giving him an acquaintance throughout many sections. In 1900 he was nominated by acclamation for tax-collector and was elected by a large majority, and that his services were appreciated is shown in the fact that he was re-elected in 1903 by another big majority. Mr. Z. is the first one in Benner township to announce for any county office. Three years ago he was invited to announce for Commissioner, which he hesitated to do, and when he did so, had only about three weeks to look after interests, which was naturally too short a time. Mr. Z. is a very worthy man and entitled to consideration at the coming primaries.—Philipsburg Journal.

What Will Bellefonte be Doing.

When the base ball fans of other towns are yelling themselves hoarse because of a hit at the right time, and when the dignified men of other places are unconsciously putting the lighted end of their cigars in their mouth, and when the fair maidens, also of some other place are drinking pink lemonade from pop bottles, then what will the people, the old men and the young men, the fair maidens and the ones not so fair in Bellefonte be doing? Probably scanning the sporting pages of the dailies and reading how other teams won and lost, or trying to figure out why Waddell didn't go in and win the last game for the Athletics. It will certainly be lively here this summer with no ball team.

HOW TO VOTE AT PRIMARIES.

Some Instructions as how to Vote Under New Law. Voters Should Study the Law.

There should be no misunderstanding as to the importance of the primary elections that will be held next Saturday afternoon and evening. This is a matter that appeals strongly to all Republicans, and it would be well for them to consider the necessity of taking advantage of the opportunity that will be presented to them as there are some very important county offices for which nomination are to be made, including Assemblyman, sheriff, county treasurer, recorder of deeds, register and clerk of orphan's court, two county commissioners county auditor and coroner. In addition to this congressman, delegates and alternates to national convention, delegates to state convention and Republican county chairman.

The county commissioners, under this act, provide tickets for all parties and each party ticket contains the names of all candidates who have petitioned the commissioners or the secretary of the commonwealth to put their names on the party ballot, hence when you enter the voting room you announce to the election officer that you want a ballot of the political faith to which you belong and on that ballot you will find the names of all the candidates of that party, and to vote it you are required to make a cross mark in the square opposite each candidate's name for whom you wish to vote. Do nothing else to the ballot. Don't mark off anybody else's name, for if you do you deface the ballot, and under the law the election officers will reject your ballot. You can't even vote what is, at general elections, called a straight party ballot, for the ballot will not contain a party square for that purpose. There will be a blank line on the ballot under each office to be filled, on which the voter is privileged to paste a name or write a name of anyone whom he wishes to vote for if that person's name is not printed upon his ballot and if he does paste or write a name on his ballot in the blank space he is not required to make a cross mark opposite the name, although to make this mark does not destroy the vote.

A voter is entitled to his party ticket only, and it is the duty of the election officers to see that this provision of the law is met without challenge, but if his right to such a ballot is challenged then he is required to make oath that he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party for whose ballot he asks, at the last general election.

It is useless for a Democrat to vote for a Republican or a Republican to vote for a Democrat by writing or pasting his name on a ballot for that ballot will be counted for him under the party name on which it was cast and hence will do him no good on his own party ticket.

To avoid mix-ups and confusions in computing the vote election officers and the voters should study the new law and the cards of instructions which will be furnished by the county commissioners.

Maccabees Have a Lively Meeting.

The real Maccabees held quite an enthusiastic meeting Wednesday night at which three members were initiated and the new ritual was exemplified and explained to the thirty-five members present and was thoroughly enjoyed and the warm reception was appreciated by all. Deputy Great Commander Renne P. Kuntz of Pittsburg was present and did the work and also addressed the members at some length dilating on the difference between the real Maccabee order and the one called the Modern Maccabees. The real Knights of the Maccabees has over 300,000 members ranking third in the U. S. in numbers out of 400 fraternal organizations but ranking first in reserve fund and money in the Treasury. The minute your application is accepted by the medical board the full amount of your life policy is payable at once should death occur, not partial settlements. The local tent in town has one hundred and seventy-six members, a fine furnished hall and a going organization with considerable property.

Newspaper Report Misconstrued.

We have been asked by persons interested to publish the appended letter owing to the misconstruction of a report that appeared in the papers last week. We do so freely in order that no reflection may be cast upon the institution and persons involved.

Aaronsburg, Pa.
April 1, 1908.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I hereby authorize the correction of the newspaper report that I was compelled by hospital and doctors' fees to ask aid by public subscription. My wife would only go to the hospital in a private room and this charge I had arranged for. The doctors' fees were to be whatever I could pay without working any hardship to myself.

The subscription idea was given me by a candidate who said that he would draw up a paper for me to solicit aid to pay my wife's bills. I said he should make it for my personal expense as my wife's expenses were arranged for.
